k likes It all started at the end of the 2009 when my husband and I were looking for a way to help us save money for our daughter's college education. I was an assistant to an agent and was told how well I was doing by the agent. I was, however, hesitant at the time because I didn't know how to book my own gigs. The agent told me I was doing a great job and that I should start to book myself. So I did. Through a lot of hard work I started to build a strong and loyal following. I began to gain name recognition and in 2010 I earned my first commission. In 2011 I started to live life on a budget. I decided to just look for sales every day and see if I could earn money to support my family. Before this I was working in a boring job with a lot of time to spend, looking for sales every day, only to go home and try to sell myself at the end of the day. Those days are over. Now I live life on a budget and work at a job that keeps me on the move, meeting new people every day, and is fun. Fast forward to July 2013. I booked a gig with an attorney for my website. He paid me $3,500 for the first gig. The second one he booked me for another $1,000 and the third one he asked me if I would do $3,000. I said no. I only work with the number of clients I can handle. He asked again and I once again said no. The final one is when he said, "I have no choice. You are my only choice." I was in awe. I knew I had what it took. I booked my first email presentation for $3,000. At the end of the presentation I asked him for $5,000. He said I couldn't have $5,000. I said, "OK, make it $7,000, or else I'm not interested." He said, "You have it." I didn't want to ask him to look at my book. I knew if I asked for $5,000 I would be seriously disappointed if he said no. So I booked my second email presentation. At the end of the presentation I asked for $10,000. I was surprised when he gave me the money. He said, "You are the only one I can do this with and I can't do it without you." I knew 82157476af
